

Predetermination for Your Dental Care

When faced with an unexpected bill, it can be stressful and unpleasant. Budgeting for dental care is much easier when you know how much a procedure will cost beforehand. With a predetermination, or pre-estimate, you can determine how much your TruAssure dental plan will cover and how much you should expect to pay before you visit your dentist.

How to Obtain a Predetermination for Dental Treatment

Ask your dentist to submit a treatment plan to TruAssure for predetermination when a dental procedure is estimated to cost more than $200. Once a predetermination is received from your dentist, TruAssure reviews the proposed treatment plan and determines what amount is covered under your dental plan and any out-of-pocket costs you may owe your dentist at the time of treatment.

Predetermination notices are sent to you and your dentist. TruAssure recommends you review and discuss the predetermination with your dentist before making a final decision on your dental treatment. Predetermination is an easy way to learn about all of your dental treatment options and helps you budget for any dental treatment you may need.

Visit truassure.com for more oral health resources and information.